Ontario Ombudsman André Marin says the province's Special Investigations Unit gets such poor co-operation from police departments, it often can't even get a response by mail — and Ottawa is no exception.

Of 11 such letters the SIU sent to the Ottawa Police Service, only one response was forthcoming, Marin said in a speech at the Ottawa Public Library Sunday.

"The police service and the police chief are responsible for enforcing the law," he said. "When the chief official responsible for overseeing the police puts them on notice that the police service has failed to follow the law, it's deserving of a response."

Marin, who has produced two reports highly critical of the SIU and the government, said a third one may be necessary.

"If there is a third report, we will be publishing an appendix with the letters written by the SIU, so we'll be making it all public, with the response or non-response of every police service in Ontario," he said.

No spokesperson for the Ottawa Police Service was available for comment Sunday.

I Walk for Water reminds locals of struggles abroad

Clean water. Ottawa residents spend Earth Day learning how hard it is for some people to access clean water

ottawa@metronews.ca

It's estimated that a woman in Africa walks an average of six kilometres to get clean water for her family, and yesterday, during the fifth annual I Walk for Water event, Ottawa residents walked with her.

The walkers gathered at the Cartier Drill Hall before heading to Parliament Hill for speeches followed by a six-kilometre walk along the Ottawa River. The walk is a fundraiser organized by Aveda hair salons for Watercan, a charity that helps provide clean water and sanitation education in the world's poorest countries. According to Watercan, the six-kilometre walk for water is common for women in Africa.

"In Canada we're fortunate enough to have clean water," said organizer Lisa Irvine. "That's not the case everywhere, so with more attention being brought to it, we're hoping that it will change."

In Ottawa, the day's youngest walkers — who joined in only for the trek to The Hill — were Westboro's Third Ottawa Beaver Colony.

"Beavers, both the four-legged and two-legged kind, need clean water," said the boys' leader, Wesley "Turtle" Rodney. "So the kids were very excited to design a banner and spend an hour out here walking and letting people know how important water is."

Ottawa Centre MPP Yasir Naqvi, who was born in Pakistan, told the walkers of his mother's several-times-daily routine of boiling the family's drinking water twice before straining it into bottles and refrigerating them.

"For me, there's a personal connection because I lived in a developing country and I've seen what impact the lack of water, or lack of clean water, can have on a community," he said.

Premier eludes protesters in Gatineau

Protesters yelled at everyone who walked into a Quebec Liberal party brunch at École secondaire du Versant in Gatineau on Sunday. JESSICA SMITH/METRO

Quebec Premier Jean Charest quietly slipped in the back of a Gatineau high school on Sunday as more than 200 protesters upset over tuition-fee hikes rallied out front.

Security was tight at a Quebec Liberal party brunch at École secondaire du Versant — as the premier's public appearances over the last week have been met with daily student protests in Gatineau, which have so far led to more than 300 arrests.

Quebec provincial police officers escorted Charest into the building as Gatineau police stood between protesters and a barrier at the front entrance. People attending the brunch walked between the barrier and the line of officers as protesters shouted at them and banged pots and pans.

Gatineau police spokesperson Pierre Lanthier said Sunday's protest was calm.

"For sure people are here to protest, but that's very legal as long as they don't do any criminal offence," he said. "They behave very well today."

Student Cecilia Tran came from the University of Laval for the protest.

"We're here to protest against the raise of (tuition) fees and also the attitude the government is showing to the protesters and the population in general," she said.

The protests have gone on for more than 60 days and the government hasn't revised the plan for a tuition-fee hike or opened a dialogue with the public, Tran said.

"We're here to indicate that we're unhappy and would like to see a change or at least a different attitude — openness toward the population."

JESSICA SMITH

A world record-setting wheelchair racer from Ottawa finished the London Marathon backwards on Sunday, hoping to draw attention to a good cause.

Josh Cassidy, who set a world-record time for the Boston Marathon last week, didn't have a great race in London. He set out to try to raise money for Niamh Curry, a five-year-old London girl who has neuroblastoma — the same kind of cancer he had as a child.

Stomach cramps and back pain set him back, he said. "Everything just went wrong; it was one of those days."

He finished in eighth, but at the last minute hit his brake, spun around and crossed the finish line backwards. Then he posed for the media, showing off the photo of Niamh on his racing shirt.

"Niamh has been my motivation for the last couple of weeks," he said. "Fighting for something that really matters."

Niamh's family is raising money — with Neuroblastoma Alliance UK — to send her to Pennsylvania for treatment, and contacted Cassidy through social media. He met her and her family, and is now helping their cause through niamhs-nextstep.com.

Cassidy will be in Ottawa this week for the Rolling Rampage race on Parliament Hill.

OHL. Ottawa 67's win without captain

Ottawa defeated the Niagara IceDogs, 7-4, in Game 2 of the Ontario Hockey League's Eastern Conference final, Sunday — without the help of their captain.

The Ontario Hockey League suspended Ottawa 67's defenceman Marc Zanetti indefinitely on Saturday for an alleged kicking incident a night earlier in Game 1 of the Eastern Conference final with the Niagara IceDogs.

The Ottawa captain allegedly kicked Niagara's Tom Kuhnackl after the winger scored to give the IceDogs a 1-0 lead in the third period.

No penalty was called on the play, and Niagara went on to win the game 2-1 in overtime.

A ruling on the length of Zanetti's suspension is expected in the near future after the league conducted a

With the win, the 67's tied the series 1-1 with Game 3 set for Monday night in Ottawa.

Ontario's minority Liberal government could fall on Tuesday if its budget doesn't pass. If that happens, Yasir Naqvi and his colleagues will be back out on the campaign trail, something the Ottawa Centre MPP is hoping — for a special reason — won't happen.

"I'm really hopeful that there will be some sort of agreement with the NDP," he said. "It's unfortunate to Constituents he's talked to don't want another election, he added.

And he's reluctant too, for one big personal reason: "I'm expecting a new arrival in my family in about three weeks' time — a baby coming — and I'd rather be spending time with my family on this happy occasion than campaigning."

From bartender to politician, rookie MP looks back at victory

Step up. Almost one year ago, the assistant manager of Oliver's Pub at Carleton University became a member of Parliament

Spend a day with rookie NDP MP Ruth Ellen Brosseau and witness the degree to which someone's life can change in 12 months.

It was a year ago this week that Brosseau was in Las Vegas, celebrating her 27th birthday under the bright lights of Sin City.

"Of course, being a mom, I called home all the time and spoke to my son and my family," Brosseau told The Canadian Press in an interview. "They were kind of like: 'There's, um, stuff going on here. You're kind of in the news a bit for going on your trip.'"

Brosseau, then a campus-bar manager in Ottawa, was hit with a stunner. Her name and photo were splashed all over the national news in the federal election campaign, as she emerged as a poster child for the NDP's improbable Quebec surge.

But a so-called "orange wave" rolled in and swept her to victory in the Berthier-Maskinonge riding, in what was perhaps the biggest upset of the election.

Instead of heading home from Las Vegas early when the news hit, Brosseau stayed put. "I didn't have the money in my bank to buy another ticket," she said.

She appears to have grown into her new job and, given the French lessons she's been taking, original claims about her lack of proficiency in the language now appear exaggerated.

With an increasing taste for politics, she plans to run again in 2015.

Alberta PC leader to make election history

Alberta PC Leader Alison Redford gets back in her vehicle after making a campaign stop in Calgary Saturday. JEFF MCINTOSH/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vote. Today, Albertans will determine the fate of their government and the 41-year PC legacy

One way or another, Alison Redford makes history on Monday night.

Win the Alberta election and she is the first elected female premier in the province, heading up a party that has run things for four decades and will soon shatter the record for longest-serving government in Canadian history.

Lose and she's Harry Strom, the forgotten scapegoated premier of the Alberta Social Credit government when it fell to the Tories in 1971.

Redford, speaking at a weekend party rally, said she is pushing ahead and doesn't feel the weight of history.

"I'm pretty excited about Monday," she said. "This is a campaign about Alberta's future."

Redford's Progressive Conservatives have been in unfamiliar territory since the election campaign began a month ago, running behind another party on the right side of the political spectrum.

The Wildrose party, under leader Danielle Smith, has fashioned an electable alternative by capitalizing on discontent over deficit budgets, long health-care wait times, onerous land-use rules and perceived political greed on salary and perks. Some polls have had them ahead by more than 15 points, though that lead appears to have slipped somewhat recently.

If the Wildrose wins, it will defeat a colossus whose history can only be told in large numbers and superlatives.

Before the Tories, the 36-year-old Social Credit Party ended the 14-year run of the United Farmers of Alberta, who in turn ended the 16-year run of the Alberta Liberals.

The PC victories have varied between large and sweeping majorities. On average they've taken eight out of every 10 seats in their 11 wins.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

Breaking record

The PCs have held power in Alberta for 14,847 days — 40 years and almost eight months.

- Should they win a 12th consecutive majority government, they will be on track to make history.
- When the next election rolls around, they will have been in power close to 45 years, ahead of the 1882-1925 Nova Scotia Liberals (43 years) and the 1943-1985 Ontario PCs (42 years).

That could boost her influence on the French political scene, hand her party seats in parliament and affect relations with minorities.

With 75 per cent of the vote counted, Hollande had 27.9 per cent of ballots cast and Sarkozy 26.7 per cent, according to figures released by the Interior Ministry after final polls closed.

Le Pen was in third with 19.2 per cent of the vote so far.

In fourth place was leftist firebrand Jean-Luc Melenchon with 10.8 per cent, followed by centrist Francois Bayrou with 9.2 per cent.

Turnout was surprisingly high, projected by polling agencies at about 80 per cent. The top two candidates head to a runoff May 6.

Democratic primary

At this time in 2008, Obama was still in an epic primary battle against his Secretary of State Hillary Clinton.

- This year, Obama's march to the nomination has generated little interest because he has no major primary challenger, no one who made the ballot in more than a handful of states.
- Democratic voters, however, are not unanimously behind the American president. In Oklahoma, anti-abortion protester Randall Terry got 18 per cent of the vote. But some say he's not a real Democrat.

No surprise. President Obama to easily secure Democratic nomination

It's official: U.S. President Barack Obama will clinch the Democratic nomination for president on Tuesday, ending a low-key primary race that many people probably didn't realize was happening.

Obama is certain to reach the 2,778 delegates he needs to secure his party's nod for a second time when five states vote on Tuesday.

He has won almost every delegate so far, with a few exceptions in some Southern states that won't vote Democratic in the fall regardless.

Report. Wal-Mart silent about alleged bribery

Wal-Mart hushed up a vast bribery campaign that top executives of its Mexican subsidiary carried out to build stores across that country, according to a published report.

The New York Times reported Saturday that Wal-Mart failed to notify law enforcement officials even after its own investigators found evidence of millions of dollars in bribes. The newspaper said the company shut down its internal probe despite a report by its lead investigator that Mexican and U.S. laws likely were violated.

The bribery campaign was reported to have first come to the attention of senior executives at Wal-Mart in 2005, when a former executive of its largest foreign subsidiary, Wal-Mart de Mexico, provided extensive details of a bribery campaign it had orchestrated to win market dominance. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Under fire

But those intimate ties have frayed and snapped since revelations last year that journalists at Murdoch's News of the World tabloid routinely intercepted voice-mail messages of those in the public eye. The scandal quickly spread beyond the News of the World to cover an array of other questionable activities by British journalists, as well as police and public officials.

Coulson — a former Murdoch lieutenant drafted as Prime Minister David Cameron's chief media aid — and Murdoch protege Rebekah Brooks both resigned before being arrested as two of the scandal's leading suspects, and Murdoch and his media executive son James have swapped discreet visits to No. 10 Downing Street with confrontational appearances before skeptical lawmakers in Parliament.

Once eager to secure Rupert Murdoch's blessing, Cameron has since ordered the official inquiry, which is calling Murdoch and his son in for at least two full days of testimony starting Tuesday. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite the breezy instantaneity evoked by its name, OC Transpo's Presto smart-card system is arriving in Ottawa at a leisurely pace. We've been talking about it for a few years now, and once expected to have the electronic fare system online by 2010. Still, transit riders know all about waiting.

Finally, though, you may have noticed the first signs of arrival, the early-spring budding of green card-reader gadgets on your bus, but the system won't be in full bloom until summer. It starts in May with a "friends and family" rollout, as about 1,000 testers troubleshoot and try to discover any glitches before the big launch.

On July 1, at the same time as our Canada Day tradition of new, even higher fares, the new system will be ready to use.

Hitching a ride

OC Transpo, if its latest fare structure is approved by council this week, will hasten the obsolescence of the paper ticket by jacking its price by 15 per cent. An adult fare of two tickets will then save you only 30 cents off the $3.30 cash price of Canada's most expensive bus ride.

This will also mark the beginning of the end for the humble bus ticket, a passing probably even less lamented than the recently announced kiss-off of the penny.

I personally won't miss winter mornings of trying, one-handed, a glove clenched in my teeth, to tear two of the little devils off a sheet, or chasing them as they blow along a windy Mackenzie King Bridge. Most of us can bid dry-eyed farewell to that woeful sensation of checking your supply of tickets as the red rocket arrives and finding you've got none (or, worse, only one).

OC Transpo, if its latest fare structure is approved by council this week, will hasten the obsolescence of the paper ticket by jacking its price by 15 per cent. An adult fare of two tickets will then save you only 30 cents off the $3.30 cash price of Canada's most expensive bus ride.

Or, Transpo hints subtly with its fares, you could tap your shiny new Presto card and pay only $2.65.

Instead of just killing the ticket and eliminating the choice, then, Transpo is just making it a pointless choice. That's OK, I guess, as long as there aren't problems with Presto serious enough to require an old-fashioned paper backup system.

About 300 Presto users in the Toronto area, where the system's adoption has also been exceedingly gradual, ran into trouble last December when some cards set for automatic top-ups to keep them from running out started reaching into bank accounts for unauthorized transactions. The problem was detected and customers notified, but these are some of the perils of automation.

On balance, though, the whole tap-and-go routine should be considerably smoother than feeding tickets or cash into those cranky machines up front, or joining that Soviet-style lineup to renew your pass every month.

The card, unlike a pass, will be transferable. You can lend them to a roommate or a visiting uncle because, as far as OC Transpo's concerned, a fare's a fare's a fare — and, thanks to the wonders of technology, they've already got your money.

It will also be compatible with Presto systems in other cities. So far, that's limited to exotic ports of call in the GTA and Hamilton-Burlington, but the appeal of waving your card and reducing your transit rigamarole in an unfamiliar city is hard to deny. And you never know — maybe some place you actually want to visit will be next to pick up Presto.

My only experience with a similar system was on a trip to the U.K. a couple of years ago, but it was a good one. I'm as easily baffled and overwhelmed as the next jet-lagged tourist, but I stumbled off the Heathrow Express into Paddington station, and was zipping around London on an Oyster card in minutes. On the whole, it was easier than sorting the euros from the pounds in my pockets.

The proof of Presto will be in the using, when you try it for yourself and it works for you — or it doesn't. Swipe and see. Welcome to the future, and good luck.

Kenya rocks London marathon

Here's a general view of runners as they go past the Cutty Sark during the Virgin London Marathon on Sunday.

Kenyan marathon runners showed their superiority ahead of the Olympics, with Wilson Kipsang and Mary Keitany coasting to victory in London on Sunday, virtually assuring that they will be selected for the games.

The winners were presented with their medals by Prince Harry, who indicated that security logistics are thwarting his attempts to enter the marathon.

Wilson Kipsang, the second-fastest marathon runner ever, won the 42.2-kilometre race for the first time, more than two minutes ahead of fellow Kenyan Martin Lel. Kipsang had stormed ahead of the pack with around 10 kilometres to go in the British capital before winning in two hours, four minutes, 44 seconds.

Go!

- World-record holder Patrick Makau dropped out less than halfway through.

- Mary Keitany pulled away from world champion Edna Kiplagat with around five kilometres to go before winning by one minute, 13 seconds. Priscah Jeptoo was third.

- In a sprint finish in front of Buckingham Palace on the Mall, Martin Lel edged Tsegaye Kebede of Ethiopia for second place.

"What's fantastic is that my brother and his wife will be doing it next year, I think."

Prince Harry quipped that his brother, Prince William and wife Kate, the Duchess of Cambridge want to compete next year.

from No. 1

The date-night movies Think Like a Man and The Lucky One have finally knocked The Hunger Games off its No. 1 box-office perch. According to studio estimates Sunday, Think Like a Man, based on Steve Harvey's dating-advice bestseller, debuted as the top weekend draw with $33 million. The Sony Screen Gems ensemble movie features Michael Ealy, Taraji P. Henson and Gabrielle Union. The Warner Bros. drama The Lucky One, starring Zac Efron in an adaptation of Nicholas Sparks' romance novel, opened at No. 2 with $22.8 million. Lionsgate's blockbuster The Hunger Games took in $14.5 million, slipping to third-place after four weekends at No. 1. The film raised its domestic total to $356.9 million. Disney's nature documentary Chimpanzee opened at No. 4 with $10.2 million.

A rookie actor, nevermore

Learning process.

Despite his roles in big films, Evans says he learned plenty from working with John Cusack on The Raven

scene@metronews.ca

Luke Evans hasn't been home in a while. The last two years have seen a marked increase in film work for the Welsh actor, taking him around the world to make films like The Three Musketeers, Immortals and this month's The Raven, in which he plays a straight-laced detective opposite John Cusack's Edgar Allan Poe. Evans checked in by phone from New Zealand, where he's been living for nearly a year while making The Hobbit — and where he says he'll be until at least July. After that? Who knows?

How much of an Edgar Allan Poe fan were you before going into this project?

I was very aware of who he was and how much of an impact he made on American literature, but I hadn't read a huge amount of his work. I knew about The Raven. The Pit and The Pendulum was the one I knew as well.

What did you think of the project when you were initially approached?

I thought it was great. I thought it was a very clever way of using Poe's work and brilliant stories and making it into a fictional detective movie and showing his stories in a very clever sort of fictional backdrop. I'd always wanted to work with John Cusack, too, so the fact that he's playing Poe was a really exciting idea for me.

What are some of your favourites of Cusack's films?

Well, I love The Grifters, I love High Fidelity. They're two I really, really enjoyed. But almost all of John's work that I've watched, I've enjoyed. He's a great man to watch when he's doing his thing. He's been doing it for such a long time, you know? You can learn an awful lot, as an actor like myself, watching John do his thing.

Well, you've got a fair amount under your own belt now as well.

Yeah! Yeah, I have. It's just been very, very fast (laughs). And movies, film work — I'm still learning as I'm going along, and I'm sure I will learn for a very long time. But it is quite great when you get to work with people who've done movies for a long time because you just watch how they play with the camera and like that, all the subtleties. I just keep watching, keep learning. But yeah, I've been acting for 12 or 13 years now. A lot of it's been in the theatre, but I try to channel what I learned there and use it in film. It's all acting at the end of the day, isn't it?

How was the experience on location for the Raven?

We started in Budapest in Hungary, and then we moved across the border to Serbia to Belgrade and also to a northern town called Novi Sad, which has a castle on the mound, and underneath the castle there's a huge bunch of tunnel networks, which is what we used in the film when... I won't give it away, but there are tunnels in the film that get used to chase... someone (laughs).

Did you feel isolated out there?

It's another difference, yeah. But Budapest is a great city, a really great city. We did a lot of night shoots in Hungary, and in the wintertime it can be cold and very windy, with a bit of snow. And it got worse because we jumped into former Yugoslavia. Serbia can get very cold. But the people are great. It's a great way to see the world. This is such a joy to me, to get a job and then go to places I would probably never have visited, and now I have. They're great, I'd go back there tomorrow.

Speaking of great locations, you're in New Zealand now. How is filming on The Hobbit going?

Filming is going very well, yeah. We're solid, solid working now. There's a lot to be done.

How have you found life in New Zealand?

I know, it's great, right? I've been here almost 10 months now, and it's such a beautiful place. Again, the people are what make New Zealand so great. They're a fantastic race of people, and they make a great team on set.

The Sweet Revenge of Simon Cowell

Tell-all book. British biographer shares some intimate details of Cowell's life in new unauthorized bio

He gets colonic irrigations, Botox injections and vitamin drips, and insists on black toilet paper in his home.

A revealing new biography offers intimate — maybe too intimate — details about Simon Cowell, along with a portrait of the entertainment mogul's savvy business side.

Sweet Revenge: The Intimate Life of Simon Cowell is written by British journalist and biographer Tom Bower, whose previous subjects include former British prime minister Gordon Brown, jailed media mogul Conrad Black and ex-Harrods owner Mohammad al-Fayed.

His latest portrait of power centres on the tanned and brush-cut Cowell, 52, who has gained fame in both Britain and North America as producer and an acerbic judge on TV talent shows including The X Factor and America's Got Talent.

Bower says he became fascinated by the story of a middle-aged music producer who struck gold by turning the old-fashioned talent contest into a slick 21st-century phenomenon — and in the process earned a fortune estimated at $320 million US. The book paints a picture of a man who struggled for years in the music business, spurred to success out of a desire to prove his detractors wrong.

"He had 20 years — more than 20 years — of humiliation," Bower said. "At school he was a total failure and as a music producer he was a total failure."

"But what he did have was charm and an ability to understand the music business because of all this failure."

Sweet Revenge, published in the U.S. by Ballantine Books on Tuesday, is billed as the first book about Cowell written with the mogul's participation — though not his authorization. Bower spent many hours with Cowell aboard his private jet, at his Los Angeles home and on his yacht in the south of France and the Caribbean.

Rufus Wainwright gets a little 'pop' with the help of Mark Ronson

New album.

Singer-songwriter enlists the help of hitmaker Ronson in a bid for the mainstream ear

Rufus Wainwright is touting the release of what he calls his most pop-leaning album yet, but the eclectic singer-songwriter is far from quitting his ambitious foray into the classical world.

The 38-year-old crooner says he's set to pen another opera, but the details are staying under wraps, for now.

"I've been commissioned to write another one, there'll be announcements about that at some point," Wainwright says cryptically during a round of recent media interviews in Toronto.

"I don't think you can kind of step into that arena and just step right out again. I think that would be very, very cowardly."

In the meantime, Wainwright returns to the pop sphere this week with his brightly melodic album, Out of the Game, an unabashedly mainstream bid shepherded by hit-making uber-producer Mark Ronson.

The 12-song disc is infused with a '70s flourish and Wainwright's trademark honey-toned vocals, which weave around evocative vignettes of life with boyfriend Jorn Weisbrodt (Song of You), new baby girl Viva (Montauk) and mourn the loss of his recently deceased mother, singer Kate McGarrigle (Candles).

Musically, the typically bittersweet Wainwright says he strove to create a more commercially bent collection, describing Out of the Game as "something that you can put on at a party and people won't leave the room."

Sound

Making music a little bit brighter

Rufus Wainwright's newest album is a bit escapist. "Right before this album came out I had written an opera and done a solo piano voice tour, buried my mom, had a baby, you know, so I was really entrenched in these huge adult issues," he notes.

"For this album I really just wanted to have a good time and kind of rock out and be silly for a little while," he adds. "And though the record still has that custom-Rufus romantic sadness, I think it's a little more upbeat and brighter than my past work."

What drives mommy to reach for a drink?

Blog. After having babies four months apart, two life-long friends teamed up to offer an unfiltered look at being new moms

MACPHERSON
For Metro News

Two bloggers with new babies have put a comedic spin on some real issues women are facing when it comes to motherhood.

Lyranda Martin Evans and Fiona Stevenson, friends for 20 years, are the co-authors of reasonsmommydrinks.com, an honest and unfiltered blog about what it's really like to be a new mom.

"Being on maternity leave is the hardest job in the world," says Evans. "If I had to do mat-leave by myself, I think I would have gone nuts."

The two friends both had baby boys, four months apart.

"In my group of friends, there was a group of 2011 babies," says Evans. "I was really lucky. Women love to help each other out."

After attending high school, Queens University and then training at the Second City conservatory comedy program together, it only makes sense Evans and Stevenson would team up for this blog.

Both are unafraid to make racy quips and expose a more realistic image of being a mom.

The writers take personal experiences and stories from mom groups to create a witty list of more than 50 "reasons why mommy drinks."

"It's very cathartic," says Evans. "At the time, it's the worst moment of the day, but it becomes funny."

The blog's name is somewhat controversial, but Evans sees it as a comedic device, playing on the expression "I need a drink!"

"We wanted to have a good hook. It's all written tongue-in-cheek."

"The blog is really about how much we love them [kids]. We're trying to be perfect for them."

Reason #38 : The Babysitter

"Mommy can't believe she's going to pay a teenager $40 to sit in her living room for three hours (texting her boyfriend and eating Mommy's cappuccino frozen yogurt directly from the tub) while you lie sleeping in your crib upstairs the entire time. But Mommy and Daddy figured that to avoid becoming a statistic, they should spend the occasional Saturday night doing something other than eating take-out Thai food in front of Grey's Anatomy, only to doze off before the latest iteration of "doctor rips off nurse's clothes in the medical supply room." Dressed in her standby LBD and rocking her volumizing mascara, Mommy's feeling pretty hot, until the sitter with Angelina legs sprouting from a skirt the size of a Bella Band greets her..."

Sunny outlook for outlets catering to millennial market

More Canadians eat breakfast on the run and it's the 20-something group that's driving the trend, says a market researcher group. A study by the NPD Group shows growth among quick-service restaurants for the morning meal. NPD predicts that segment of the market will grow 10 per cent by 2016.

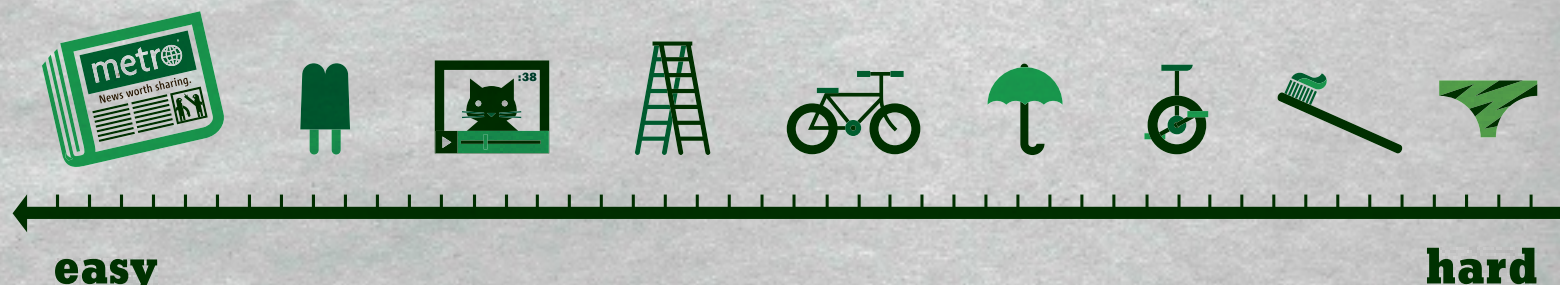

The study, A Look into the Future of Foodservice, finds that nine per cent of the population prefers to pick up its morning meal at outlets, and this has led to a 14 per cent increase in breakfast sales in the past year.

Archery. Hunger Games heroine Katniss makes archery cool for kids (minus the hunger and killing stuff)

In schools and backyards, for their birthdays and out with their dads, kids are gaga for archery four weeks into the box office run of The Hunger Games and less than 100 days before the London Olympics.

"All of a sudden sales of bows have tripled," said Paul Haines, a salesman at the Ramsey Outdoor store in Paramus, N.J.

A manager there made a sign for the hunting department: "Quality bows for serious archers and girls who saw the movie."

Archery ranges around the country have enjoyed a steady uptick among kids of both sexes since the movie began cleaning up at the box office March 23, though heroine Katniss — a deadly shot with an arrow — seems to resonate more with girls.

Ashley Donzella participates in the youth archery league at Targeteers Archery in Saddle Brook, N.J.
CHARLES SYKES/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Katniss is so inspiring," said Gabby Lee, who asked for archery lessons for her 12th birthday in February after reading the popular book trilogy by Suzanne Collins.

"I'm not very sportsy," she said, but now she belongs to a youth archery league near her Hasbrouck Heights, N.J., home. "It feels really good because I'm usually the girl who sits and reads."

Like more than 2 million kids in nearly every state and several other countries, Abbey took archery in gym class this year as part of the decade-old National Archery in the Schools program that trains teachers in the sport and offers discounts on equipment.

"There's a lot of buzz among young people about archery right now. They want to shoot bows and arrows so badly, they're willing to follow the rules," said Roy Grimes, the organization's president.

Catch of the day makes for easy weeknight dinner

This recipe makes two servings. THE CANADIAN PRESS H/O

Sweet and spicy, this catfish only needs a medley of vegetables served along with it or a crisp green salad for an easy weeknight meal.

1. In a small bowl, mix together Dijon and Creole mustards, honey and vinegar. Spread mustard mixture over top of fillets and arrange potato slices over mustard, pushing down gently so potato sticks.

2. In a non-stick skillet, heat oil over medium-high heat. Carefully place fillets potato-side down in skillet and pan-fry for 5 minutes.

3. Remove fillets and place on parchment-paper-lined baking sheet. Bake in centre of 180 C (350 F) oven for about 12 minutes, until potatoes are golden and fish flakes easily when tested with a fork.

4. Apple and Jalapeno Glaze: Meanwhile, in a small saucepan combine apple jelly, water, apple and jalapeno and simmer on

Ingredients

- 15 ml (1 tbsp) Dijon mustard
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) Creole mustard
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) honey
- 5 ml (1 tsp) cider vinegar
- 2 farm-raised catfish fillets (each 175 to 250 g/6 to 8 oz)
- 2 medium potatoes, peeled and cut in paper-thin slices
- 30 ml (2 tbsp) olive oil

Apple and Jalapeno Glaze

- 50 ml (1/4 cup) apple jelly
- 15 ml (1 tbsp) water
- 1/2 apple, peeled and diced
- 1/2 jalapeno, seeded and diced

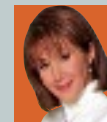

low heat for about 5 minutes. Keep warm.

5. Remove catfish from oven. Place on serving plates and drizzle with glaze.

Prom-posals: A new age of asking

A night to remember. From rings to aerial requests, youth are adding a wow-factor to 'Wanna go to prom?'

Never mind a text that meekly asks "will u go 2 prom w/me?" Today's teenagers are taking a cue from elaborately staged wedding proposals, inviting each other to prom with flash mobs, scavenger hunts, home-made music videos and even airplane banners.

And while coming up with clever or romantic ways to ask someone to prom isn't an entirely new concept, the effort and expense going into the big ask these days has given rise to a new term: Promposal.

"This year is the first time we've done prom invitations," said Remy Colin, owner of Aerial Messages, a company that charges $600 for a plane to fly a banner with a message on it. "It's expensive as hell for a high schooler who doesn't have any money, but we've done two in the past three months," one in Myrtle Beach, S.C., and one in Tampa, Fla.

Alex Chichkov, 17, arranged for a plane trailing "Come to prom with me, Kayla?" to fly over a student fundraiser his girlfriend Kayla Bennett was attending at King High School in Tampa in March.

"I've seen it for weddings and I wanted to do something huge or unique," said Alex, a senior who paid for the fly-over with money he earned working at a family business.

"I didn't want to do anything generic. In the history of the school, no one has done anything that big. It's going to be my only prom, first time ever, last time ever, with someone who's been my girlfriend for two and a half years, so it deserves to be that big."

The plane flew over a student Relay for Life event, which raises money for the American Cancer Society, right before the talent show, while a sound system played a Michael Bublé cover of the Frank Sinatra song, Come Fly With Me.

CONSIDER A CAREER AS A PARALEGAL

Did you know that to practice as a Paralegal in Ontario you must be licensed by the Law Society of Upper Canada (LSUC)? In order to write the LSUC licensing exam, you must graduate from a program of study accredited by LSUC.

The paralegal program at Algonquin Careers Academy is accredited by LSUC. The objective of this program is to provide both theoretical and "hands-on" training in the key areas of paralegal work and to ensure the student is prepared to successfully undertake the Law Society's licensing exam.

The need for well-trained, competent legal professionals has never been greater. Paralegals may find employment in a wide variety of workplaces, including:

- Government (Federal, Provincial, Municipal)
- Advocacy agencies
- As a Self-Employed Paralegal
- Law and Paralegal Firms
- Courts (Federal and Provincial)
- Legal Clinics
- Banks/Financial Institutions
- Insurance Companies
- Large Corporations

PART-TIME EVENING CLASSES NOW AVAILABLE

You can complete this program in less than one year by attending school full time, Monday to Friday.

Green living — dollhouse-style

Next-generation toys. Dollhouse with different types of green themes helps educate kids as they play

life@metronews.ca

For young children, play is serious business. It's what they do — and how they learn.

That's why PlanToys, an innovative maker of eco-friendly playthings, has created the ultimate green dollhouse.

"The PlanToys dollhouse shows many different types of eco-themes," explains Cal Nicholson, sales and marketing specialist at Playwell Canada.

"It's got a windmill, a solar shade, solar panels, recycling buckets — even the furniture inside features cotton that is all organic."

The concept is deliciously simple.

Along with all the social skills and imagination any good dollhouse fosters, this one turns sustainability into a basic, everyday concept — taken as a given from very early in life.

"The reality is that for the kids, the dollhouse is something cool to play with," Nicholson says.

"But the really big thing about PlanToys actually is about the parents. They know that the eco-credentials of this product are among the highest on the planet, and they feel really good about

The dollhouse is made from rubber wood trees from Thailand. Normally, these are burned for charcoal once they reach the end of their productive life. Instead, PlanToys uses their chemical-free wood to build toys that are tough, durable — and very green.

"Using chemicals goes completely against the green feature of the product, and they're only using soy inks or natural water-based colours," notes Nicholson. "All the packaging is recycled and recyclable."

"You're buying a product that is Earth-friendly, that has high quality, and it's evergreen in the sense that kids are going to play with it for a long time. It's not a Walmart item that's going to get thrown away or broken in two weeks."

Nicholson sees the PlanToys dollhouse as an investment in the future — in more ways than one.

"This is something that can be played with by younger siblings or passed on to future generations," he explains. "PlanToys' whole model is sustainable play — in terms of the product itself, and also for the environment."

Child's play, in other words.

NHL playoffs

Daniel Alfredsson is "hopeful" to return for Game 6.

BRUCE BENNETT/GETTY IMAGES FILE

'We know we're going to get their best game': Spezza

Seize the day.

The Latin equivalent of that phrase — "Carpe Diem" — adorns a plaque in the tunnel leading to the ice at Scotiabank Place and provides a pretty good reminder of the attitude the Ottawa Senators should currently be embracing.

With a chance to knock off the New York Rangers on Monday, opportunity is knocking for the eighth-seeded Sens. Not only will they enjoy the support of their home fans in Game 6, they should also have captain Daniel Alfredsson back in the lineup.

"We know we're going to get their best game," Senators forward Jason Spezza said Sunday. "They're the best team in the East and the hardest game to win is to send a team home. We have to make sure that our focus is there."

Alfredsson participated in an optional skate on Sunday and looked ready to return for Game 6. The only thing that could prevent it is an unexpected setback in his recovery from a concussion.

"I'm hopeful," said Alfredsson. "We're obviously going to wait until tomorrow (before making a decision). But the way the last two days felt, I'm encouraged." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sen ators ahead of the playoff learning curve

THE HOCKEY NEWS
Murray Pam
ottawa@metronews.ca

At the conclusion of Game 4 of the Senators' series against the New York Rangers, coach Paul MacLean uttered this thought-provoking statement: "One thing about this time of year, you can learn a lot about your players and the players can learn a lot about themselves."

What have we learned so far?

Crease is the word. Craig Anderson has not wilted under pressure. While Henrik Lundqvist's key stats are slightly better, the Rangers have not had the edge in goal that many predicted they would. Lundqvist carries a 1.78 goals-against average and .945 save percentage compared to Anderson's 1.79 and .943. In addition, Anderson takes a 113:50 shutout streak into Game 6 and has made 66 consecutive stops. Is Anderson ready to dethrone the 'King'?

Carls sparks. Matt Carlsner sat for long stretches this season, but has made an impact against New York. Carlsner earned a one-game suspension for his attack on Brian Boyle, but that event galvanized the Senators, and sent a message to the opponent: Ottawa won't be pushed around. The 32-year-old is also underrated as a puck-handler. It was Carlsner's nifty pass to Milan Michalek that keyed the Senators' comeback in Game 4. Ottawa has won all three games in which Carlsner has appeared in the series.

You know me now? Earlier this season, Rangers coach John Tortorella could not remember Zenon Konopka's name and referred to him as "Zeenon." Konopka has two assists in his four games, but more importantly his 72.3 percent success rate on faceoffs ranks first in the playoffs. His special-teams play in the dot has given his teammates a significant advantage. Konopka is an unbeaten 4-0 on the power play and 13-4 while shorthanded.

Adversity conquered. The Senators had never won a playoff game without Daniel Alfredsson in the lineup, and now they've won two. This edition has regrouped emotionally after Alfredsson's concussion, something that cannot be said for past teams. Alfredsson skated on the weekend and is a game-time decision for Game 6. His return would be an emotional charge, but if he can't go the Senators know they're capable of winning without him.

Regardless of the outcome of the series, Ottawa has proven its mettle, given an A effort and has earned respect league-wide. Everyone now knows they're a group to be reckoned with.

Rangers just want to 'get the next one'

Rangers goalie Henrik Lundqvist looks down after Jason Spezza's goal on Saturday in New York. MIKE STOBE/GETTY IMAGES FILE

If you didn't know the top-seeded New York Rangers were one loss away from elimination, the low-key practice before their biggest game of the season wouldn't have given away the dire circumstances.

After their best season in years, the Rangers are trailing the No. 8-seed Ottawa Senators, 3-2 in their first-round series. If New York doesn't win at Scotiabank Place Monday night and capture Game 7 in New York on Thursday, the 51 wins and the first-place finish in the Eastern Conference won't mean a thing.

Adorned on the wall at the Rangers' practice facility is a motivational saying that can be seen on either side of the circular dressing room: "Everyone wants to win ... not everyone is willing to prepare to win."

But New York has been knocked out of the first round in the last two years coach John Tortorella led the club to the playoffs.

The Rangers, who dropped games 4 and 5, lost three in a row during the regular season only twice — including the first three games they played.

"Whoever is going to win has to win four," Rangers forward Brad Richards said, "and no one has done that yet."

Only 11 players took the ice Sunday in what could have been the Rangers' final practice of the season, and many of them aren't likely to be in the Game 6 lineup Monday in Ottawa. One player who will, is Carl Hagelin — the speedy rookie forward who finished serving a three-game suspension Saturday night when New York lost 2-0 at home.

"I'm excited to get back," Hagelin said. "We're down 3-2. We want to get the next one, and that's the only thing on my mind right now."

The Senators have a chance to end the series at home, while the Rangers need to figure out how to solve Craig Anderson. Anderson made 41 saves for his second career playoff shutout in Saturday's 2-0 Game 5 victory. Jason Spezza scored both goals for Ottawa and has four points in the series.

Brian Boyle (concussion) will likely miss tonight's game after being hit hard by Chris Neil. Marian Gaborik, who had 41 goals during the regular season, hasn't scored since Game 1.

Bruins force Game 7 in Beantown

Capitals goalie Braden Holtby skates off the ice as the Boston Bruins celebrate Tyler Seguin's overtime goal in Washington on Sunday. Because Seguin and Tim Thomas returned to form, the Bruins are heading back to Boston for another game against the Washington Capitals. Seguin scored at 3:17 of overtime, Thomas made 36 saves, and the Bruins beat Washington 4-3 to tie the first-round series at three games apiece. The defending Stanley Cup champion Bruins never trailed, but needed a stolen pass and a deft bit of skating by Seguin to finally get the decisive goal and avoid elimination. The series finale is Wednesday night in Boston. The first six games were all decided by one goal, three of them in overtime. (PATRICK MCDERMOTT/GETTY IMAGES)

Flyers put Pens in the rear-view

NHL. Philadelphia's Giroux caps big series with sixth goal to help eliminate Pittsburgh

Claude Giroux had his coach call him the best player in the world.

Giroux needed one shift to prove that claim is more than hometown hype.

He flattened Sidney Crosby only five seconds into the game, buried his sixth goal of the series past Marc-Andre Fleury 27 seconds later, and led a Philadelphia Flyers charge into the second round.

Giroux wrapped up a dominant series with a goal and two assists, Ilya Bryzgalov was outstanding in net and the Flyers beat the 108-point Pittsburgh Penguins 5-1 on Sunday to win their Eastern Conference opening-round series in six games.

"G is a very special player," Bryzgalov said. "There's not very many players like that in the world."

Giroux gave the Flyers an opening shift to remember. In a series where no lead was safe, the Flyers scored the first three goals and made it stand behind stout defence and stellar play out of Bryzgalov.

Bryzgalov allowed 20 goals in the first five games. He settled down in Game 6 and gave up only Evgeni Malkin's goal in the second period.

The Flyers had stormed out to a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series before Pittsburgh won two straight. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21 - April 20.

This is a week for getting things done, not fretting needlessly.

♉ Taurus | April 21 - May 21.

Usually you keep your feelings to yourself but over the next few days you will surprise a few people — and maybe yourself — by how easily you open up emotionally.

♊ Gemini | May 22 - June 20.

Enrich yourself and enrich other people too.

♋ Cancer | June 21 - July 22.

Romance is in the air: feel it, breath it, enjoy it.

♌ Leo | July 23 - Aug. 22. If you intend to make major changes this week it will pay you to let partners and loved ones know well in advance.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23 - Sept. 22.

The more confident you are the more people you will attract to your side.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23 - Oct. 22. A family or financial matter that has been causing you concern will disappear off your radar today, never to return.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23 - Nov. 21.

Your one and only priority today is to have a good time.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22 - Dec. 21.

If your instincts tell you a certain course of action is right then that is what you must do — even if the rest of the world screams "Don't do it!"

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22 - Jan 20.

The odds may seem stacked against you at the moment but it's an illusion.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21 - Feb 18.

You may think that people are talking behind your back, and you may think that someone in authority has got it in for you, but that just shows you think too much.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19 - March 20.

If you are the kind of Pisces who needs to be told that you are loved and appreciated then this will be a wonderful day. Almost everyone in your life wants to be nice to you. Why? Because you deserve it, that's why. SALLY BROMPTON
